7 SISTER

STATES OF INDIA

All of the rivers that flood the plains in Assam originate in Arunachal Pradesh and Nagaland. Mizoram and Manipur are connected to the rest of India through Barak Valley in Assam. And it is due to this interdependence, they were given the sobriquet.

The interdependence of the seven contiguous states – Arunachal Pradesh, Assam, Meghalaya, Manipur, Mizoram, Nagaland, and Tripura gave origin to the moniker.

A famous journalist from Tripura – Jyoti Prasad Saikia, coined the term '7 sisters of India' during a radio talk show in 1972.

But, sadly Sikkim is not part of the seven sisters as it is separated by a chicken neck corridor or Siliguri corridor. A tiny strip of land in the northern region of Bengal joins the North East with the rest of India.

Unlike the other seven states in the north-east, which share a contiguous border, Sikkim is some distance away. Therefore, it is called the only brother among seven sisters.

ASSAM

Soothing beauty, offbeat tourists attractions, spiritual ambiance, the sacred river, humble people, and zealous culture, Assam boasts plenty of fascinating secrets.

Being one of the Northeast India's iconic seven sisters, a holiday in Assam is about witnessing a heady mix of history, culture, and nature at the same time. The state happens to be the land of many wildlife reserves, which are further home to the one-horned rhino, one of Assam's tourism best-known mascots.

IT ALL STARTS WITH Nomoskar

The mighty Brahmaputra river, named for the Creator of the Universe, Brahma, is central to life in Assam.

The city Guwahati, over 600 miles northeast of Kolkata, has some interesting temples signifying Hindu Tantric practices. With typically Assamese beehive-shaped domes, the temples are the sites of many large festivals. Both Kamakhya & Navagraha temples are situated at commanding hilltop sites.

The World Heritage Site of Kaziranga National Park in Assam is home to the magnificent one-horned rhinoceros. Along the banks of the Brahmaputra river, this 166 square mile park stretches across grasslands and swamps, forests and hills where many animals migrate during the heavy monsoon rains.

Sibsagar, at the heart of Assam's tea producing region, is also an historic city, ruled by the Ahom Dynasty for 600 years. They were prolific builders and there are many ruins and temples to visit.

Dispur - The Capital

Dispur is the capital city of the Northeastern state of Assam. It came into existence after Shillong was carved out of Assam as the capital and Dispur took its place in 1973.

About 10 km away from Guwahati, lies the capital city of Assam, Dispur. The Sualkuchi weavers' village is the main attraction, which invites visitors for its beautiful and intricately woven mekhela chadors. This rustic village is a birdwatcher's paradise as it is visited by many migratory birds during winters.

Prominent landmarks in Dispur include the Assam Assembly House and the Assam Secretariat, which are stately buildings. The pilgrimage point of Bashistha Ashram, which lies on the confluence of Kanta, Sandhya and Lalita rivers, is also a must-visit.

The tea auction markets of Dispur are renowned all over the Northeast. Travellers should try and time their visit to attend the festivities of Bihu, which sees a grand celebration. The Kamakhya Temple and the Navagraha Temple are nearby attractions.

ARUNACHAL PRADESH

The last frontier of India's tourism, the virginal Arunachal Pradesh comes across as a gigantic patch of the uncharted green on the map of India. The wildest and definitely the least explored state of the country, Arunachal Pradesh is also known as the Land of Dawn-lit Mountains. It rises precipitously from the plains of the Assam as a large mall of densely forested and fatally steep hills which finally tower off as the snow-capped peaks along the border of Tibet. Arunachal is indeed the last sanctuary for the anthropological and natural heritage of India. It is also a home to 26 primitive tribes.

IT ALL STARTS WITH HEH LOH

There are times you are left to wonder if nature has been more kind to some parts of the earth. The world has many places that offer you great experiences, breathtaking moments and amazing views. Some tourist spots have beautiful mountains and stunning valleys; some are deserts but still have a great deal to offer.

Each is beautiful in its own way and every place is unique for what it has to offer. While nature plays its game at its will on various locations, mankind had been playing its own game. Very few places have the best of everything and Arunachal Pradesh is one such place.

The state is rich with picturesque beauty that offers relaxation and rejuvenation. The place offers you peace and action. Places of worship or wildlife sanctuaries, you name it; the state has it.

What more to say about Arunachal Pradesh. It is one of the most naturally wonderful places in the world. The rich ecosystem that it possesses, with a variety of flora and fauna, is just a part of its beauty as a state.

Itanagar - The Capital

Itanagar, the beautiful capital of Arunachal Pradesh is a rich mixture of archeological sites of great historical value and built up resources and institutions of great socio-cultural significance. The place is most visited for its scenic vistas and adventure experiences.

It is home to many hamlets and tribes; they carry the rich tradition of craftsmanship, which manifests itself in various arts and crafts produced by these tribes. Furthermore, the beautiful North-east region offers some of the most lip-smacking delicacies that are relished by both locals and tourists.

Itanagar has an imposing landscape of beautiful lush green forests, rivulets and elevated patches. The town is a mini guide to the rich culture and traditions of Arunachal Pradesh. It holds the power to embrace people with its rustic charms and beautifully quaint surroundings by means of sightseeing and adventure activities.

MANIPUR

Ruled by kings for over centuries, the ancient history of Manipur dates back to 33 A.D. The birthplace of Modern Polo, a land of exquisite culture and diverse ethnicity, the rich and vibrant past of Manipur still remains unexplored. One of the remarkable events in the history of Manipur is the Battle of Imphal (4th to 6th April 1944), an intense battle which marks an important role in India's freedom struggle. Manipur officially became an Indian state in the year 1972. This land of pristine natural beauty and ancient structures can transport you to the prehistoric ages.

IT ALL STARTS WITH Namaste

Affluent in natural as well as cultural beauty, the state boasts of rather unconventional ways to display its rich heritage. Manipur takes pride in honouring its wars and struggle for freedom through memorials and various other sites.

While remembering its own heroes, such as Bir Tikendrajit, General Thangal, Paona Brajabashi and Haipou Jadonang, the state also commemorates those from other lands, such as the memorial built in remembrance of the Japanese soldiers who laid down their lives in Manipur.

Manipur is home to a diverse indigenous group of people, each unique in their culture and dialect.

From the globally acclaimed Manipuri dance to the ancient form of martial arts Thang Ta and the various forms of folk dances and music, Manipur the jewelled land has lots to offer to a visitor. A state blessed by nature where nature and adventure meets, Manipur is a scenic wonder.

A person is seen from behind, sitting in a wooden boat on a body of water. They are holding a long wooden pole. The water reflects the sky and the surrounding landscape. In the background, there are green hills and some buildings. The sky is blue with scattered white clouds.

Imphal - The Capital

Imphal is the capital city of Manipur. A city catching up as a tourist hot spot in the North East region, Imphal has a lot of things in store for tourists. The lush green vegetation and clear blue skies will clearly fascinate the senses.

Imphal has a lot to offer to a varied range of tourists from culture enthusiasts to shopaholics. Some of the major tourist sites include the Kangla Fort, Imphal War Cemetery, Shree Shree Govindajee Temple etc.

Imphal is a little paradise on earth and an enticing destination for tourists to explore. It boasts the oldest Polo Ground in the world and for knowledge buffs the museums here are filled with ample artefacts relating to art, culture and history of the State. You can enjoy 'a shop till you drop' moment at the local market run by 3000 women that sell both household and handicraft items.

MEGHALAYA

Dividing the Assam valley from the plains of Bangladesh, Meghalaya remains one the most priceless gems of North East India which is loved for its diverse natural beauty. Travellers visit here to delve into the enchanting mix of cultural and natural wonders which is hard to find anywhere else. It is perhaps the only destination which can be visited during any time of the year as its charm never fades. This abode of clouds brings to you an enchanting mix of tribes, including the Jaintia, Khasi and Garo.

IT ALL STARTS WITH Namaste

Nestled in the northeastern Himalayas, Meghalaya takes the distinction of being the wettest place in the world. With lush green landscapes, picturesque surroundings, white clouds and mist, Meghalaya has been successful in playing an enchanting drama which never failed to capture the heart of the travellers.

The state even gives the opportunity to get a perfect wildlife experience by visiting the Balpakram National Park where the rich biodiversity mind-boggling scenic beauty doesn't fail to charm the tourists.

Shillong - The Capital

Founded in the second half of the nineteenth century by the British, Shillong town has enjoyed a cosmopolitan core since its beginnings. This reflects in the unique culture of Meghalaya's scenic capital – a place where every festival is celebrated with zest and travellers will stumble across cuisines from across the country and the world.

Shillong's modern reputation is built on its love for music and there have been many legendary musicians who call this home. There are many faces to Shillong – the quiet neighbourhoods with whistling pine still thrive but there is also a vibrant downtown area.

Shillong is also known for its emerging café culture. Attractions here include the pleasant, tree-lined Ward's Lake and the sprawling Golf Links – a favourite outdoor recreational space for the residents. If you want to chart the colonial history of the place, we would recommend the Shillong Heritage Walk.

MIZORAM

Mizoram is a mountainous state nestling in the southern tip of the north-east region of India. Covered with verdant forests dominated by thick bamboo groves, teeming with vibrant wildlife, sheer cliffs and breath-taking waterfalls, dotted with unique landmarks of myriad folklores and picturesque villages of houses built on stilts, a land of dramatic seas of morning mists that enfold islands of hills and peaks. This is the land of the Highlanders, or the Mizos. For anyone looking for a quiet holiday or outdoor activities in pristine and peaceful setting, this is a destination worth your while.

IT ALL STARTS WITH Nomoskar

Standing aloof from the adjacent plains of Assam and the other neighbouring states, Mizoram remains an exotic location sharing more than one-third of its boundary with Bangladesh and Myanmar and its capital, Aizawl is still one of the least-frequented cities in India. With a population of 888573 only, it is one of the most sparsely-populated states.

Mizoram has a moderate and pleasant climate throughout the year, and is an idyllic land of great natural beauty having rich variety of flora and fauna.

Though still considered remote and hence, an unfrequented destination, the location of Mizoram itself helps maintain its quaint appeal, as do its scenic landscapes of bluish hills and mountains, steep rocky cliffs, serene lakes and deep valleys of gurgling streams plunging down sheer drops to form the spectacular waterfalls.

To the more adventurous spirit, the rugged terrains and rivers are ideal for various outdoor sports and activities.

Aizawl - The Capital

A beautiful hill city, Aizawl, the capital of Mizoram is situated at about 1132 metres above sea level. Flanked on the north by the lofty peaks of Durtlang, the hill city is set on ridges of steep hills overlooking the sylvan valley of the river Tlawng in the west and of the river Tuirial in the east and south. This picturesque and peaceful city also commands exotic landscape of verdant hills stretching away to the horizon.

Aizawl literally means "a field of wild cardamom", a name which originated during the days of the great Mizo chiefs Lalsavunga and Thanruma who had set up villages in and around the present site of Raj Bhavan in the early nineteenth century.

The area, however, was deserted when the British administration established a military outpost "Fort Aijal" in the spring of 1890, following which it became a permanent settlement and eventually, the headquarters of Mizoram. Being the state capital, Aizawl is also the political and cultural centre of Mizoram.

NAGALAND

Nagaland offers unending exploration possibilities from heritage villages to wildlife sanctuaries. Beautifully nestled amidst the lush and verdant sub-tropical and sub-alpine climate, Nagaland treasures an overabundance of wild flora and fauna and even some medicinal plants. Nagaland is a beautiful destination in India and it stores some popular places to visit. You can soak in the freshness of fine scent in the air, the calming yet buzzing sound of wild cicadas and beautiful rolling ranch lands and white fluffy clouds hovering above.

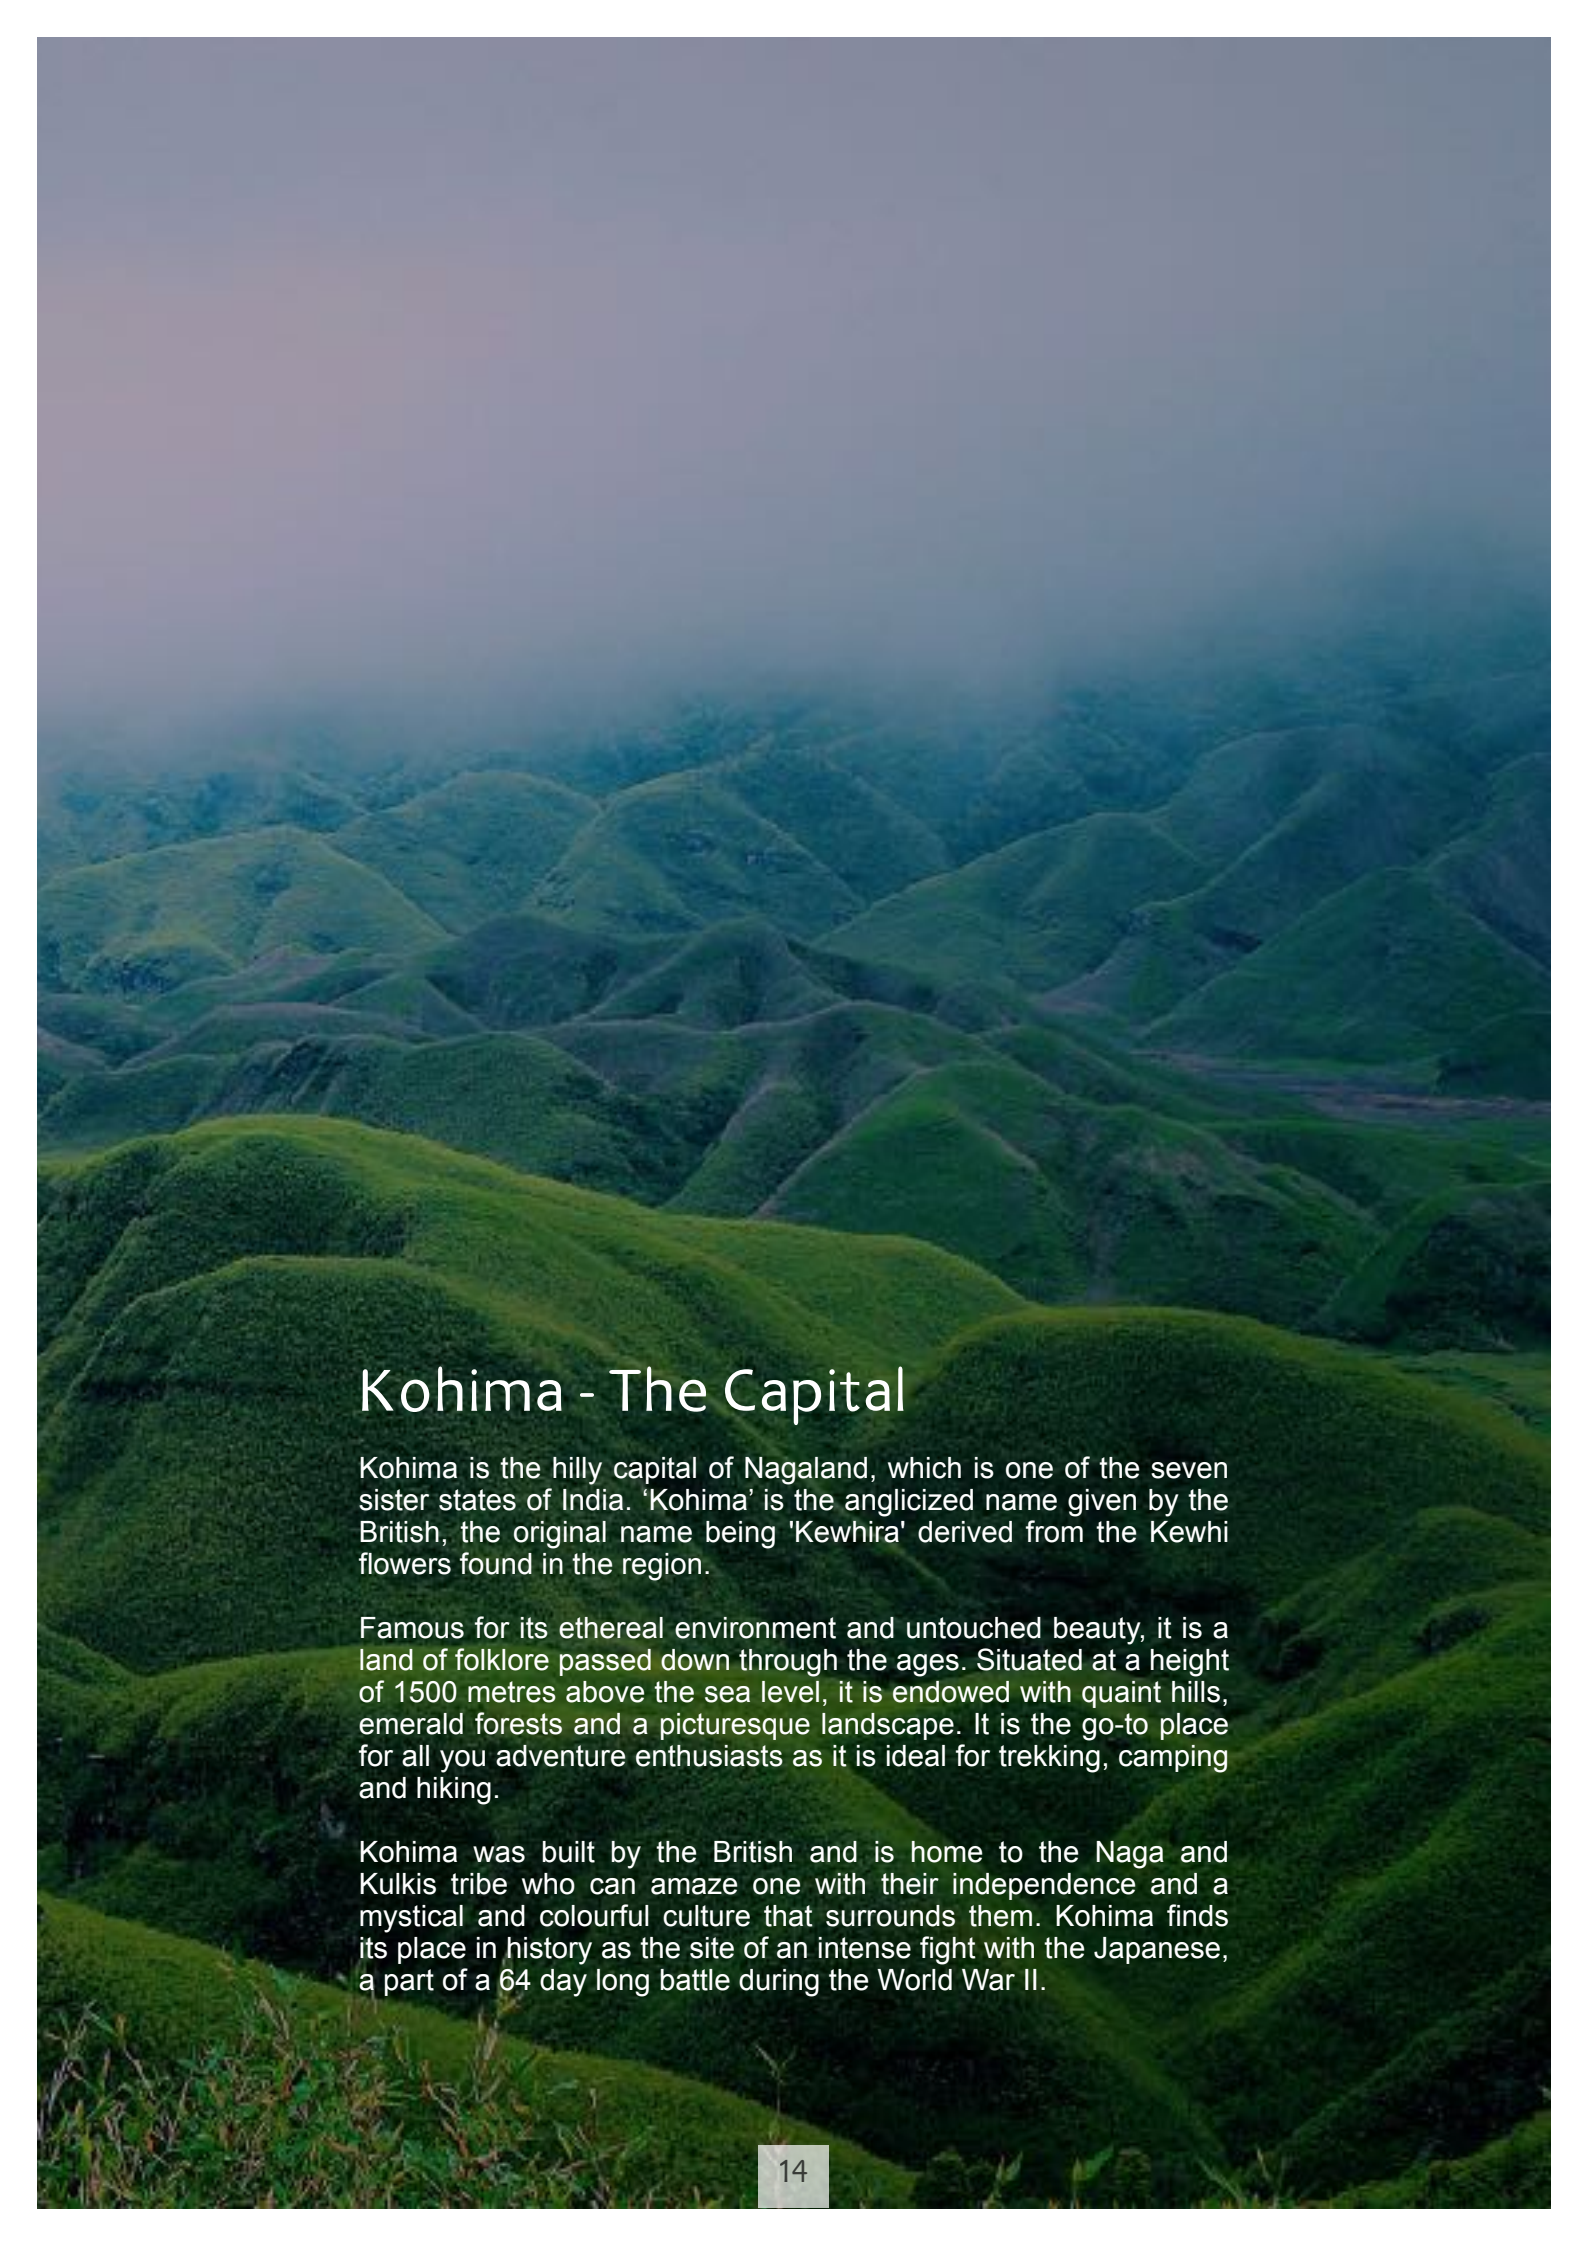

IT ALL STARTS WITH Namaste

A popularly accepted, but controversial, view is that it originated from the Burmese word 'Na-Ka' or 'naga', meaning "people with earrings." Others suggest it means pierced noses. Both naka and naga are pronounced the same way in Burmese.

This must visit destination 'Nagaland' is a wonderful world full of beauty, appeal and adventure that calls tourists from far and near. As for some, the only drawback is the accessibility which is an important factor and perhaps the only reason why this seems to be a dream-like destination.

But truth be told, the roads are quite convenient, from smoothly linked highways via Assam and West Bengal, Nagaland, in fact, the entire Northeast is easily accessible.

Travellers venture into the Naga Hills to experience Nagaland tour with exquisiteness and to have unforgettable memories of the landscape, people, food, and culture. Even the rich deep forest looks blue because of the reflection of the bright sky with meandering clouds hovering around.

Kohima - The Capital

Kohima is the hilly capital of Nagaland, which is one of the seven sister states of India. 'Kohima' is the anglicized name given by the British, the original name being 'Kewhira' derived from the Kewhi flowers found in the region.

Famous for its ethereal environment and untouched beauty, it is a land of folklore passed down through the ages. Situated at a height of 1500 metres above the sea level, it is endowed with quaint hills, emerald forests and a picturesque landscape. It is the go-to place for all you adventure enthusiasts as it is ideal for trekking, camping and hiking.

Kohima was built by the British and is home to the Naga and Kulkis tribe who can amaze one with their independence and a mystical and colourful culture that surrounds them. Kohima finds its place in history as the site of an intense fight with the Japanese, a part of a 64 day long battle during the World War II.

TRIPURA

Tripura is a cultural reservoir among all the northeastern states of India. Heritage and historical sites, temples going back hundreds of years, wildlife destinations and a thriving arts and crafts industry, these are the most popular tourism attractions in Tripura. Those looking for biodiversity hotspots during their Tripura holidays will not be disappointed, this state has plenty of those. Tripura is one of those travel destinations in India that attract families, friends, couples and solo travellers.

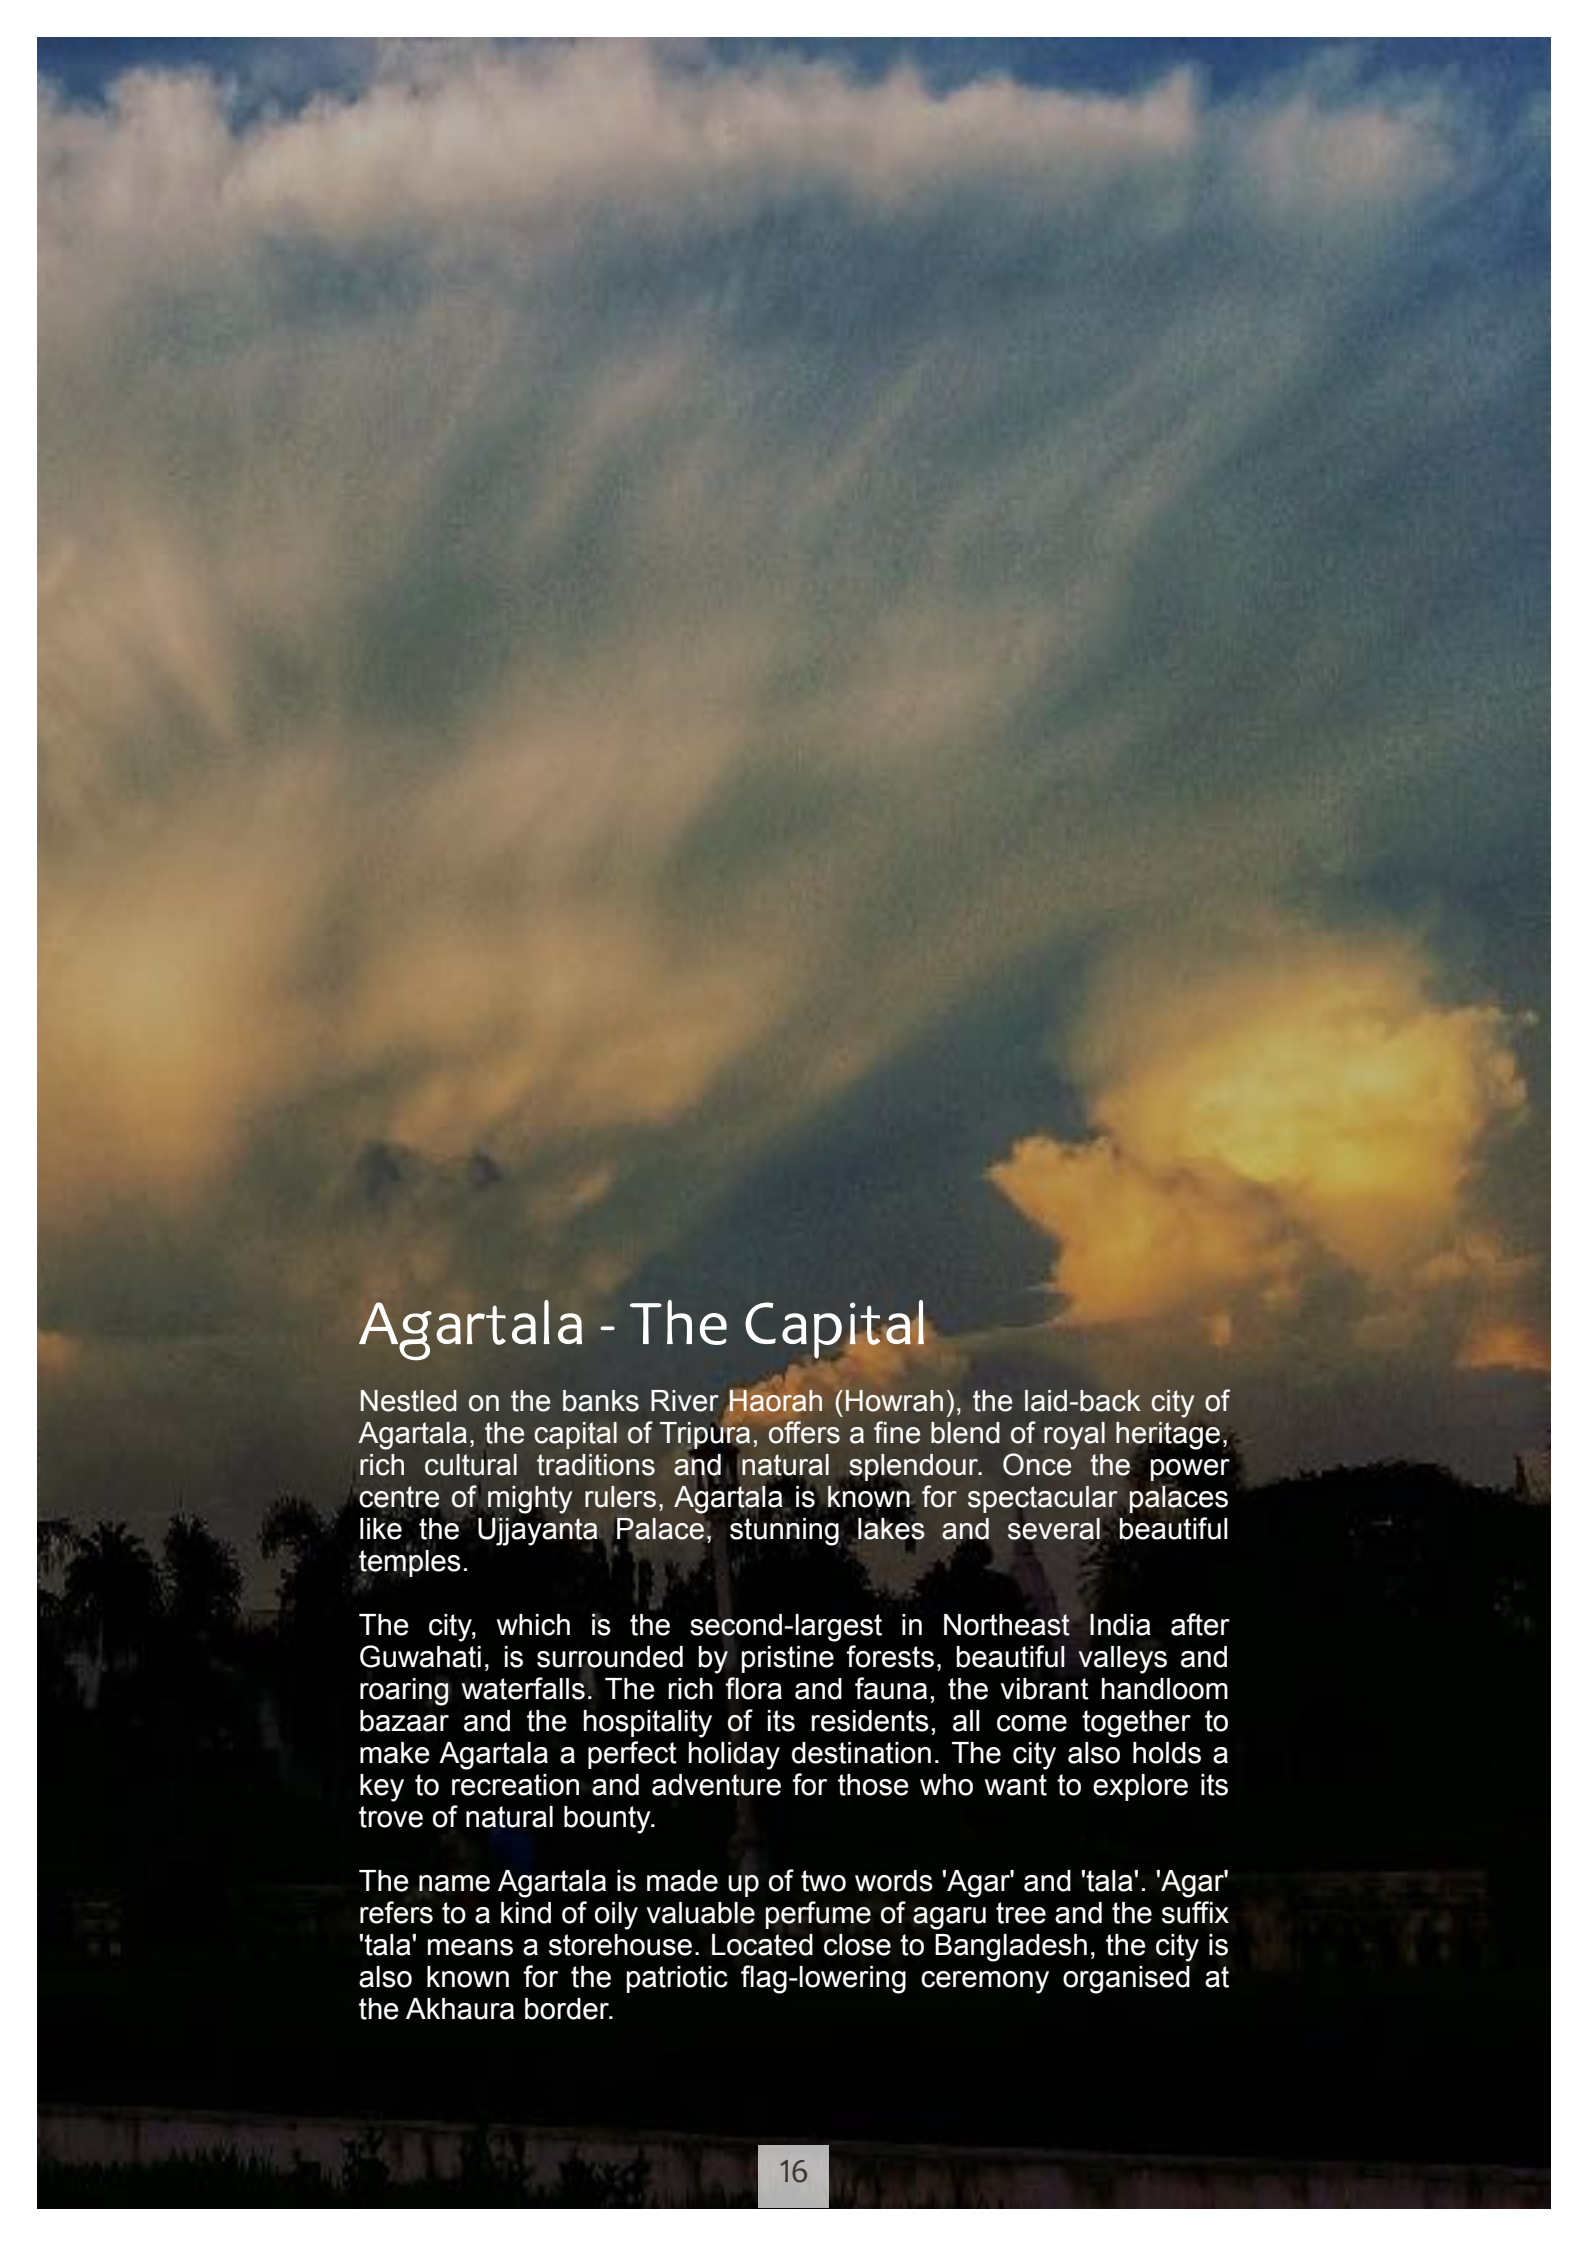

IT ALL STARTS WITH Nomoskar

The points of tourist interest in Tripura range from adventure and culture to wildlife and arts and crafts. Such is the kind of diverse travel experience that this place promises.

In terms of geography, the state is marked by the presence of five major hill ranges which extend from north to south and then extend southwards till they meet the Chittagong Hill Tract in Bangladesh. Upon arriving in the state for the first time, however, it is the lushness and the greenery all around which immediately catches your attention. Such dense greenery is a gift to the eyes and a treat to the sense. One of the top tourist attractions in Tripura are its heritage sites.

The foremost among these is the Ujjayanta Palace, a gleaming white structure stretched out leisurely in the heart of the city of Agartala. Among the top things to do in Tripura, one is visiting its temples. Many of these were built thousands of years back, and are still noted for their traditions.

The city, which is the second-largest in Northeast India after Guwahati, is surrounded by pristine forests, beautiful valleys and roaring waterfalls. The rich flora and fauna, the vibrant handloom bazaar and the hospitality of its residents, all come together to make Agartala a perfect holiday destination. The city also holds a key to recreation and adventure for those who want to explore its trove of natural bounty.

The name Agartala is made up of two words 'Agar' and 'tala'. 'Agar' refers to a kind of oily valuable perfume of agaru tree and the suffix 'tala' means a storehouse. Located close to Bangladesh, the city is also known for the patriotic flag-lowering ceremony organised at the Akhaura border.
